

1983. "I'm passionate about great quality work and beautiful architecture." That passion is evident in every phase of a full-service construction process that includes access to Bruder's network of experienced and talented craftsmen and subcontractors, an emphasis on cost control, unrivaled communication through weekly job site meetings and post-construction follow-through that often results in lifelong friendships between the firm and its A-list clients. "We always want to be there for our clients," Bruder says.

HOME SWEET HOME

It speaks volumes about Bruder's devotion to his craft that even the construction of his own home yielded valuable lessons about his business. "Working on my home gave me a better sense of how I can assist my clients," he says. "It made me even more sensitive and attune to their individual needs. It's not just about slapping up a building. It's about building someone's dream. Everyone deserves a great construction experience." Too often, Bruder notes, clients share stories about disastrous past projects. How they went well past deadline. Or well over budget. How the expectations and quality levels were never met. "We want to be known as the company that delivers a project on time and on budget," Bruder says. "We want people to say our team was a pleasure to deal with and that all the expectations were not only met but exceeded."

 bruderconstruction.com

01	04
02	05
03

CAPTIONS & CREDITS

01. This clean kitchen design is part of a striking renovation of a 1920 Spanish colonial revival home. 02. Natural light filters into the gym and entertainment lounge of this Beverly Hills home. 03. Bruder renovated this Mediterranean-style weekend getaway home in Montecito. 04. The master bath inside this contemporary Venice home speaks to the quality Bruder brings to its projects. 05. A rose garden outside this Beverly Hills estate adds to its splendor.

01. Janet Barnett 02. Courtesy of Bruder Construction 03. Courtesy of Bruder Construction 04. Courtesy of Bruder Construction 05. Courtesy of Bruder Construction